This special "stamp" was produced by the Australian Government Stamp Printer to be used on mail carried on the first airmail flight from England to Australia. Only 576 stamps were produced, 125 were destroyed, leaving 451. Of these, 364 were used on the mail, leaving a balance of 87 unused, of which many have had the surrounding selvedge removed. Approximately 25 examples are held in museums around the world. Mint examples of the stamp with selvedge all around are the greatest rarities in Australian philately. (photo) Est.
